

It takes approximately one million years for a glass bottle to break down in the landfill.

Glass can be recycled over and over with no loss in quality or purity.

Glass containers go from the recycling bin to store shelves in as little as 30 days—again and again.

